BRITISH COURT UNIFORMS.

Expensive Garments Worn on State Occasions.

Much of the splendor of any of his Majesty's courts would be lacking if it were not for the dazzling uniforms of the high officers of state and the great officers of the royal household who assemble at these impressive functions.

There are always five or six different grades of gentlemen in attendance present when his Majesty holds a court, and each has its distinctive dress, the difference usually being indicated by the trimming, either gold or silver, or the number of buttons worn. The complete outfit of a first class court official runs up to £200, the jacket alone costing £80 to £100. It is made of the finest royal blue cloth lavishly embroidered with gold lace of a highly elaborate design. The waistcoat and knee breeches are made from white kerseymere silk richly embroidered, set off with buttons and buckles of gilt, and white silk stockings, sword, cocked hat and white kid gloves make a complete costume as rich as it is dignified.

An Ambassador or foreign diplomatist wears a special distinction—black velvet collar with a gold embroidered floral design. The uniform costs the wearer about £115.

Lord Lieutenants are dressed in a coat of royal red cloth cut swallow-tail and adorned with silver buttons and the collar embroidered with silver lace. Silver laced trousers are worn with a cocked hat without plumes. The uniform is very handsome and costs the wearer 100 guineas simply for the privilege to wear it, let alone the making of it.

To the Duke of Norfolk, as the Earl Marshal, however, falls the enviable distinction of wearing the most costly apparel of all great officers of state. The dress is absolutely unique, and for sheer magnificence has no parallel in any country. Nearly three miles of the finest gold thread is used in the embroidery on the coat, collar, front and on the lappets of the sleeves. Each suit costs £250.

All Cabinet Ministers and other high state officials are expected to have at least one state uniform. A complete court outfit will cost from £130 to £170.

There are of course many others, such as the Captain of the Yeomen of the Guard, the Captain of the Gentlemen at Arms, the Master of the Horse and the squires and pages of honor, who have to possess a distinctive dress for special occasions, costing from £20 to £50. Court dandies will only wear these uniforms once, while noblemen sometimes make the same uniform last a lifetime. It has been computed that on these great state occasions the value of the uniforms worn exceeds £30,000.—From Tit-Bits.

Old Age Pensions.

The granting of old age pensions is certainly the most gracious act which England has ever performed toward her aged people. Cannot we, a great, vigorous and prosperous nation, strive to emulate the example here set by England, and take care of our aged people who have borne their burden during the heat of the day for our welfare?

This country can well afford to enter into friendly rivalry with England or any other European nation in acts of benevolence toward their people. The politician or statesman who is bold enough to be first to agitate this matter will make an imperishable record for himself, besides receiving the benedictions of millions of our people.—J. G. in the Evening World.

The world's wool record is held by Spain exports at least $3,000,000 worth of olive oil a year, and in years of large crops twice that amount.

Australia, with Argentine second and the United States third.
